DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH AND RE-PUBLICAN HOPE IN THE SCALES.

At Sundown the Tale Will be Told, and the Most Momentous Conflict for Yours will Pass into History.

The sun rises this morning at 6:45 o'clock and sets at 5:03 P. M. The polls will be open only during these hours, and every Democratic voter in this city, districk and State should cast his vote for the party nominees.

In the city it has been especially urged by the central committee that all of the Democrats go to the polls as early in the day as practicable, and in order that no inconvenience or error may arise, the voting places in the city are again pub-be especially careful to see that he uses the proper ticket, as there has been put in circulation a spurious ticket, an almost exact counterpart of the "regular Demo-cratic ticket," bearing the name of Mr.

Walter E. Grant for Congress.

This, of course, is done solely for the purpose of betraying some unwary voter into casting his ballot for the Thirl party candidate, and great care must be charved in order to done. served in order to detect the counterhe regular tickets all bear the name of Mr. George D. Wise for Congress. There is still another ticket bearing the name of Mr. Walter E. need Federal assistance. Mr. John Bowers, on Governor street, will close his place of business at noen to-day, in order to give all of his employes an opportunity to vote.

This action will doubtless be followed by many other business houses, in fact, every proprietor should see to it that every man in his employ has an opportunity to vote.

A number of business men have agreed to serve to-day as bondamen in case there should be any Democrats arrested by Federal officers for any amount of bond,

Methodist Sunday-School Society.

The twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Methodist Sunday-School Society of Richmond was held at Clay-street Methodist church Sunday afternoon at 3:30 'clock, Robert E. Richardson, president;

Charles P. Rady, secretary.

The meeting was full of enthusiasm, the spacious edifice was filled to over-flowing with Sunday-school workers and friends of the cause

The exercises were very interesting and profitable. After singing and prayer by Rev. W. E. Jenkins, the president introduced the following: Recitation, "The Amen Corner," by Emma and Freddy Nash; "Everything for Jesus," by Mabel Jones; "A Model Little Girl," by Bessie Chappell.

The president then read his annual re-ort. The report shows that the Society has had a year of prosperity. During the year the Manchester Sunday-School Soclety was formed, and three schools joined that organization, but the Society has organized three other—viz.: Barton Heights, Highland Park and Soldiers' Home.

He gives the following facts: Number of schools, 16; number of officers and teachers, 489; number of scholars, 3,828; conversions, 318; collections, $2,964. This is an increase in each department. He recommends that steps be taken to secure a missionary for the city.

The report closes with the following tribute to the late Albert L. West: "It is my sad duty to report the death of Brother West, who died at his residence on the 27th of September last. He was for many years the efficient president of this Society, and lately chairman of the visiting committee, and also held many responsible positions in the Church, in all of which he was eminently efficient and faithful. He was specially devoted to Sunday-school work, and was identified with it from his youth to his death. We shall miss his cheerful face, but we rejoice to know that his death was peaceful, and triumphant."

Mr. T. D. L. Walford, treasurer, made a gratifying financial report. Rev. P. A. Peterson, D. D., then made a splendid address on "The work of the Methodist Sunday School Society in the city of Richmond, and the beneficial effects of Sunday schools in general."

Rev. J. Wiley Bledsoe, D. D., also made an address on "The Moral and Spiritual

City Hall Work.

The work about the new City Hall is now rapidly coming to an end. The dozen or more carpenters who have been working through the building putting in the sash are so nearly through that job that they are making the floors. These have been delayed for the lack of lumber.

Last week a representative of a large firm in the West was here. He was looking after his contract for the ornamental iron work on the ground stairway and on the column in the corridor. He was much pleased with the modelling work of the home firm of decorators in plaster of Paris, Messrs. Davis & Delhaye, and immediately he made a contract with them to furnish the models for the iron ornaments of the building.

firm commenced the work at once. There is small doubt, considering the rapidity with which the work on the City Hall is being pushed, of its readiness for occupancy by June next.

Mrs. Daniel Dead. Mrs. Judge William Daniel, who died yesterday morning at the residence of her brother, Dr. J. G. Cabell, 108 north Fifth street, was the wife of one of Virginia's most influential citizens, and the daughter of Judge W. H. Cabell, at one time Governor of the State, and of Agnes S. B. Cabell, the daughter of Colonel Gamble, of Gamble's Hill.

In her youth she reigned socially by her beauty and graces of mind and character; in maturer years and old age she exerted, if possible, a stronger influence by her wonderfully sustained intellectual power, crowned by rare spiritual exaltation and the attraction of unselfish, gentle traits of womanhood.

The Missing Druggist.

The account of the disappearance of Morris Binswanger, the druggist at the corner of Fourth and Baker streets, with a woman of bad character, published exclusively in Sunday's Times, created considerable interest, as Binswanger was well-known to the trade, and was quite an intelligent and popular young man.
It is estimated that his debts left paid will foot up about six hundred dollars, mostly due to drug firms. His stock seized on by one of his creditors was of small value. Nothing further has been heard of the eloping parties.
